Introduction

Woxsen University believes in the transformative power of education and the profound impact it can have on individuals and society. In our continuous pursuit of academic excellence and social responsibility, we would like to introduce "Project Legacy." This innovative initiative aims to bridge the gap between university students and children in Government Schools, empowering our future managers to serve as role models and mentors for these young minds. Through Project Legacy, we intend to provide valuable guidance and support in areas critical for personal and professional growth.

Project Objectives

The primary objectives of Project Legacy are as follows:

1. Mentorship: To foster mentor-mentee relationships between Woxsen University students and children from Government Schools, enabling personal and academic development.
2. Career Guidance: To assist mentees in making informed decisions about their future career paths and educational pursuits.
3. Stress Management: To equip mentees with effective stress management techniques, particularly during exams, to enhance their overall well-being and academic performance.
4. Time Management: To teach mentees the importance of time management and help them develop practical time-management skills.
5. Communication Skills and Assertiveness: To enhance the communication skills and assertiveness of mentees, preparing them for success in various aspects of life.

Implementation Plan

1. Participant Selection

University Students: We have identified interested and responsible Woxsen University students from MBA batches to volunteer as mentors. They will undergo training to ensure they are well-prepared for their roles.

Government School Children: Students from Government Schools will be selected based on their interest in the program and their need for mentorship.

2. Mentorship Sessions

Frequency: Mentorship sessions will be conducted twice a month for a period of 2 months to ensure consistent guidance and support.

Topics: Sessions will cover career guidance, stress management, time management, communication skills, and assertiveness. Each topic will be addressed in dedicated sessions.

3. Training and Resources

Training for the mentors: University students volunteering as mentors will be given instructions on how to develop effective mentoring skills, including active listening, empathy, and communication.

Resource Material: The students will create resource materials, such as course guidelines, and online resources material, to support both mentors and mentees in this journey which will be overseen by Ms. Alolika- Students engagement and disciplinary officer and Mr. S. Sudhan-ERS Project officer.

4. Feedback

Continuous feedback from mentors and mentees will be encouraged to make necessary improvements and adjustments to the program.

Expected Outcomes

Through this Project, we anticipate the following outcomes:

- Empowered mentees with a clearer understanding of their career goals and paths.
- Improved mental well-being among mentees, particularly during exam periods.
- Enhanced time management skills, leading to better academic performance.
- Strengthened communication skills and assertiveness, contributing to personal growth and future success.

Conclusion

Project Legacy represents Woxsen University's commitment to nurturing not only the academic but also the personal and professional growth of young minds in Government Schools. By providing mentorship and guidance in critical life skills, we aim to set a positive example for the future managers and leaders of our society.
